BATES—WEST PARIS

Mrs. Jennie D. Everett, wife of Leroy Everett, was held at her home at West Paris, Monday afternoon, Feb. 2. Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes attended the services and interment was in the West Paris cemetery.

Mrs. Everett was the fifth daughter of the late John and Dolly Gile Chase and was born at North Paris, May 22, 1851. She was twice married. Her first husband was Henry C. Hammond, who died three months after marriage. Her second husband survives, also five sisters, Mrs. Phebe Edgewood of South Paris, Mrs. Charlotte Ellis of Turner, Mrs. Mary Bradbury of West Paris, Mrs. Laura Chase and Mrs. Anna Kimball of South Paris and one brother, John Chase of Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett had three children, Henry C., who died at the age of three years; Lucy, wife of Lewis B. Bates, who has lived at home and cared for her parents, and Roy, who died in infancy.

Mrs. Everett has been a great sufferer under long operations, three in the past two years. She was at the hospital when she died, was stricken with paralysis after the last operation. Mr. Everett remained with her while there, and in his devotion. They have lived in their present home for thirty-two years and held in high esteem by their neighbors and friends.

A teacher training class of twelve members has been formed in the Federated Sunday School and the books they are going to study is entitled "Talks With the Training Class" by Margaret Slatery.

The W. P. H. S. senior class party has been announced and Gordon Abbott has the valedictory and Annie Curtis, salutatory. Gordon's average rank for four years was 98 per cent, and there were six or seven others whose rank ran close up to it.

The Daughters of Veterans Tent had good patronage at their public supper, Saturday night, Feb. 14. At their meeting, Monday night, they had a good Lincoln program. They have been presented with six silk flags, one by Mrs. Benton, one by Mrs. Price of Norway, and the last four by Harold Gammon. They feel very proud of all of them. The flags are a yard long or more and are needed in their work.

Use Hard Water in Mixing Spray

Government Bulletin Tells of Methods for Preparing Solutions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More than half of the citrus groves are located in arid or semi-arid districts. A large proportion of the finer grades of fruit are grown in groves that are dependent wholly or in part upon deep well water for spraying purposes. The water from these wells is known as hard water, containing minerals in such proportions that the ordinary or unstabilized oil emulsions will not mix with it unless the water has been previously treated.

Mix With Well Water.
It has been found that oil emulsions stabilized with any one of a number of different colloidal substances will mix with practically all deep-well waters even when unstabilized. These stabilized emulsions will also mix with lime-sulphur solutions, making a highly effective combination spray for white flies, scale insects, and rust mites.

When a combination of this kind is properly made by a competent grove manager it is a reasonably safe spray for either citrus foliage, branches or fruit. The stabilized oil emulsions have met with much favor among many of the largest citrus growers, who no longer find any difficulty in using the untreated water from deep wells.

Methods for Treating Water.
A new United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 1217, "Mixing Emulsified Mineral Lubricating Oils with Deep-Well Waters and Lime-Sulphur Solutions," by W. W. Yothers, entomologist, and J. W. Weston, pathologist, discloses the best methods for treating deep-well water, but also recommends using stabilized oil emulsions with untreated water.

Directions and formulae are given for stabilizing oil emulsions by applying various colloidal substances, such as casein, milk, skimmed milk powder, gelatin, cornmeal, wheat flour, corn starch, and laundry starch, as well as glue. Those interested may obtain the bulletin, as long as the supply lasts, by applying to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Crop Production Behind Increase in Population

Crop production in the United States is not keeping pace with the annual increase in population, according to figures just released by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Total crop production has increased 13 per cent during the past twelve years, but production per capita has decreased about 5 per cent.

The mass of crop production in 1924 as measured by an index number is 113 per cent of the average for the five-year period 1914-18, and in 1923 the figure was 110 per cent. The index of crop production per capita in 1924 is 95 per cent of the average for the five-year period, and in 1923 the index figure was 94 per cent.

There was a decrease of about one-fifth of 1 per cent in acreage of crops from 1923 to 1924 but production in this period increased 1 per cent. The trend of crop production per capita has been lagging since about 1915, with the exception of 1920, the department says.

Kansas Potato Growers Are Treating More Seed

In the Kaw valley of Kansas, seed potato treatment for control of tuber-borne diseases has been found to bring increased yield.

When agricultural extension workers began demonstrating the value of seed potato treatment in the potato-growing communities, very few farmers in this section used this preventive measure. Method demonstrations were followed by the growing of test plots in which treated and untreated seed was planted by farmers under conditions of extension workers.

These test plots gave such farmers and their neighbors an opportunity to compare the results from the use of treated and untreated seed. The number of Kaw valley acres on which treated seed potatoes were planted has increased each year, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, from practically none in 1918 to more than 6,000 acres in 1924.

Crop Production in 1924
Estimates made by the United States Department of Agriculture show that the 19 truck crops produced in this country this past year for table use and manufacturing were valued at $318,000,000. This is $12,000,000 less than in 1923. Tomatoes were first in gross value, showing a total of $55,000,000. Also the largest acreage was devoted to this crop. Irish potatoes were valued at $44,000,000; strawberries, $35,000,000 and cantaloupes, $20,000,000.

Useful Litter Carrier

It is best to provide a good manure and litter carrier, when one is making preparations to take care of the manure. It is one of the greatest labor-savers that can be found about the modern barn. The manure can be forked into the carrier easier than it can be thrown from the windows, and a few minutes' rolling it out to the pit and dumping the contents by the release of a mechanical lever.

Feed Molasses to Hogs

It seldom pays to feed molasses to hogs when it costs more per pound than corn. In fact some experiments at the Mississippi experiment station show that it requires from 1.8 to 1.9 pounds of molasses to equal 1 pound of corn when fed to pigs. Other experiments have shown a higher value but it is certain that molasses will not equal corn pound for pound. Therefore, with corn at its present price, it would not pay to substitute molasses at 25 cents per gallon.

PARIS HILL

POULTRY FACTS

PRODUCE MORE EGGS IN WINTER SEASON

"The Badger state's winter egg production can be increased very noticeably per hen by carrying out certain easily followed plans," says O. M. Johnson, superintendent of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture poultry flocks.

"We have discovered," avers Johnson, "that pullets must be separated from the old hens to get the best possible egg production. If this policy is not carried out, the older hens will keep the pullets from their feed and boss them around so that they do not have a chance to get full development."

By letting the pullets run with the older fowls, there is also a great danger of spreading diseases. This, too, is fatal to egg production. An underdeveloped pullet or one that is backward in her development should be sold, continues the poultryman. These pullets, as well as cockerels that are not to be kept for spring's breeding, do not as a rule pay their board.

"Skim milk is one of the greatest aids in egg production, and it should be used to the limit," says Johnson, "and each pullet should never be without plenty of milk, either sour or sweet." Washing the dish thoroughly each time before feeding is presentation so as to guard from diseases. When hens have all the milk they can drink, very little water is needed. In fact it is best, advises the poultryman, that pullets do not have water if they have all the skim milk they can drink. The milk will furnish them with water and at the same time the proteins and minerals the pullets need.

Whole cabbages hung up in the scratching pens will furnish fine green feed, but other greenstuffs also serve their purpose. Many poultrymen make the mistake of throwing large amounts of green stuffs on the floor where it gets moldy and dirty.

For the mash, which the pullets should have access to at all times, equal parts of bran middlings, yellow cornmeal, oats and beef scraps or tankage has given the best results. If the chickens have all the milk they can drink, the meat scraps and tankage can be cut to one-half part.

"A dry, well ventilated hen house free from mice and lice is important. The litter in the scratch pens should not be too deep at first as the pullets do not know how to scratch deep, or else will not. Yellow cracked corn is as good a scratch feed as one needs, but one-third of all the wholestome grain can also be added."

Ration Recommended for Making of Winter Eggs

The following ration for winter egg production recommended by the Maine College of Agriculture, satisfies the needs of the hens and is economical and practical. During the past year it has been fed on a number of farms with good results: Scratch grain—ten pounds of shelled corn and five pounds of dry threshed oats. Dry mash—three pounds of wheat bran, three pounds of wheat shorts and one and one-half pounds commercial meat scrap.

Where milk is plentiful three gallons of skim milk or buttermilk furnished each 100 hens daily will take the place of meat scrap. Either milk or some form of lean meat must be supplied in every ration for successful winter egg production. Commercial meat scrap can be obtained from most feed dealers in 100-pound sacks. One sack will supply protein needed by 100 hens for more than two months.

Barley or feed wheat may be used instead of oats. Cornmeal or ground oats may be substituted for shorts in the mash. Alfalfa meal or clover leaves may take the place of the bran. A good grade of tankage may be used instead of the meat scrap. In feeding this ration all grain should be fed in deep straw to compel the birds to exercise. The mash should be fed in self-feeding hoppers or troughs and a supply kept before the birds. In addition to this ration, hens should have an abundance of water, a supply of green food and free access to fresh green and crushed oyster shells or soft limestone grit. With early hatched pullets, housed comfortably, and fed this ration, winter eggs are assured.

Plan of Line Breeding

Line breeding can be done by using the same ancestry or blood lines with careful selection that avoids the bad effects of inbreeding. The shade of difference between line breeding and inbreeding is sometimes very faint. Breeding the pullets of a mating back to sire, and one of the cockerels back to the hen, is a strict line breeding, which is often practiced to establish certain qualities in a strain.

One Nest for Six Fowls

One nest should be provided for each five or six fowls, and even more if trap nests are used. Twelve by twelve inches is large enough and one-fourth-inch mesh hardware cloth is excellent for the bottom. Wall nests are to be preferred to those located under the dropping platform, but the latter require a top place at an angle of at least 45 degrees, to prevent the chickens roosting on them. The runways along the front of the nests can also be made to fold up.

Homebuilding Progress

Progress made in homebuilding since the days of the Twentieth century beginning of little more than normal can be termed the general trend. It merely followed the general trend of educational and industrial development, but occasionally took creative turns with resultant structures that were chiefly unobtrusive in design and using extravagance in the use of materials. Much of that has been done away with by the builders of the last few decades.

"OLD-SALT" TALES

By CAPTAIN IRA PERKINS

(Copyright.)

Minute Tells a Story

"NOW that the ten of you have made up your minds to call your club the 'Ten Skippers' club," I assume you are ready to hear a tale or two," said Captain Ira, and there was a humorous twinkle in his eye. "Yes," answered several skippers. "And if you please, Captain Ira, I'd like to hear more about that pony named 'Minute,'" added Bobby Treat. "As I told you some time back," began the captain, "I didn't really go along all the way with Minute. Some of the things I know about him were told to me by his friends. Other things I just had to surmise for myself."

"Suppose I tell you this story as Minute himself might tell it. He could talk. We'll see how close I can come to talking like you may think a horse should and to having horse-feelings, and horse-sense. Try to imagine these things with me. It was like this—"

"And Minute thinks to himself—'Well, there I was tied tight and fast to this new manila picket line. There wasn't even a bit of grass to nibble, and I was so hungry that I could have devoured a bale of hay.'"

"Pretty soon, some soldiers came, and they led us all away to a big courtyard where we were sorted out. Then we were assigned to certain men. These men looked us over with a great deal of interest. They patted us on the nose, and examined our feet, and some of them thumped us in the ribs till it hurt like everything. 'Finally, we were all fed back to the picket line and tied fast again. 'If you have ever been real good and hungry, you know just how grouchy it makes a fellow feel. I was grouchy, sure enough. Besides that, some big horses near me started to shove and to make remarks about my size. I stood all I could of it, then I began to kick. Now, I'm a pretty good kicker, even though I don't do it myself, and it was no time at all until I had all those big horses standing away at a respectable distance."

"About that time, the soldiers came along to feed us. One of them saw me standing there all by myself, and he stepped close and looked me over in that calculating way men have when they are thinking of buying one of us horses. Only, of course, he couldn't buy me. He could only pick me out, to ride and to take care of. Also, if you don't mind my saying it, so that I could sometimes take care of him. Then I heard him call to some one further down the line: 'Here is the horse I want.' Next, he went away and then came back with a big feed of—oats! I never tasted anything so delicious. 'That soldier and I soon grew to be firm friends. He took good care of me. 'One day my soldier and I were to go on guard at one end of a big artillery practice range. The idea was that we were to keep everyone from going down a road which led to the going down a road where the shells exploded. I don't know how it came about, but in some way a farmer and his wife, with a cart drawn by two black oxen, had gone past the soldier who was on guard before we came. A friend of the farmer told us of it. He also explained how we could make a short cut through the hills and reach the farmer before the firing started."

"Away we went at a gallop. Down a lane; across a swamp; through a thicket; into a cornfield; better-sketcher we hurried along for a mile or two. Then, right in front of us, a great long cliff loomed up. It was high as a three-story house, steeper than the steepest roof and studded with jagged boulders as big and broad as a door. 'My soldier was very angry. I'm afraid he said something wasn't very nice. Then he jumped off my back and decided to hasten on afoot, as it looked all he could do to climb the cliff himself."

"Up the cliff he started. Never once did he look back at me. When once that I decided to do some climbing myself. It was a hard pull. Once I thought I couldn't make it. But I scrambled on and, just as my soldier went over the top of the cliff I started to get his attention and to have him wait for me."

"Did he wait? Well, you can just believe he did. He actually hugged me in joy when I reached his side. Then he swung into the saddle and away I galloped. The farmer and his wife and maybe saved their lives. They were grateful to us, at any rate. 'Well, that is all to that tale, and I'm going for a trot. Come around some other time and I'll have more war tales to tell you."

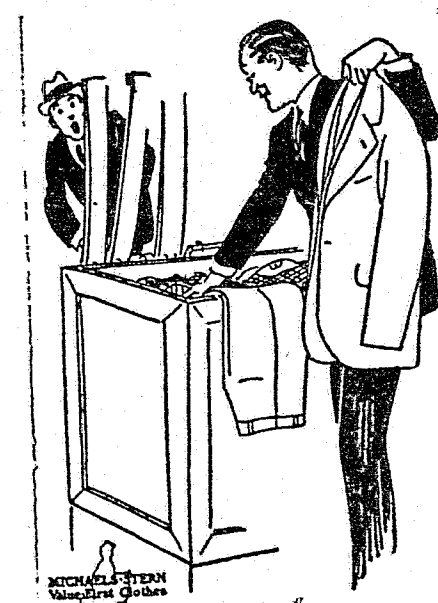

With that, Minute starts eating, and all we can hear is his strong teeth crunching the grains of corn.

FLASHLIGHTS

A wife can be as satisfying as a sweetie if you'll try as hard to show her a good time. It isn't that Paris is less naughty, but only that Americans no longer observe any contrast. Another way to forget earth's sorrows is to pick up the two strangers who ask for a ride. How busy everybody is, trying to prove that religion played no part in that New York affair.

BRIDGTON

Mellen Plummer

Mellen Plummer, prominent in banking circles, died at his home here, Saturday afternoon, at the age of 73. He had been in failing health for several years, and had retired from the position of treasurer of Bridgton Savings Bank with which he had been connected for the past 38 years.

Mr. Plummer was born in Waterford, Nov. 4, 1851, and came to Bridgton in 1873, where he was employed in the P. P. Burnham store for 15 years. He became connected with the Bridgton Savings Bank, and was treasurer of that bank for many years. He was trustee of Cumberland Lodge, I. O. O. F., for 25 years; a member of Oriental Lodge, F. & A. M., other branches of Masons. He served as town treasurer and town clerk of Bridgton and was trustee of the Ministerial Fund of the Congregational Church for many years.

Besides his wife, Mr. Plummer leaves a son, Carl T. Plummer, who succeeded him as treasurer of the Bridgton Savings Bank.

Funeral services were held Monday.

SOUTH ALBANY

Spring is surely on the way. All signs are favorable. Ivan Kimball saw a raccoon out sunning himself on a log one day recently. He has several trees tapped which are running well and already has made some very nice syrup. This is the made some of the season so far reported. Merton Kimball and Clyde Millett of South Waterford were at Merritt Savin's recently. They bought a veal calf of Ernest Browne.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Lebroke were invited to spend the day with his daughter, Mrs. Jesse Littlefield, and family at No. Waterford, Valentine's Day. This was in honor of Mr. Lebroke, as it was his 71st birthday.

Ernest Browne, Merritt Savin, Elmer Benley and Herman Holt have all been hauling sawdust to cover their ice.

Roy Wardwell, who has not been very well for some months, seems to be a little on the gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Savin visited at Ezra Lebroke's, Tuesday, the 17th. Walter Cawwell is again hauling pulpwood to Holt's Brook. He has been unable to haul since the bad rain as the roads are in such a bad condition.

Letters from Della Holt at Ormand Beach, Florida, tell of beautiful weather there. She is enjoying the winter very much and is glad to escape the cold and heavy storms which we have had here the past winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Browne and son, Donald, recently visited her father, John Lord, at North Waterford. They found him very lame and not able to move around a great deal.

Albert Adams of West Stoneham has bought some hay of Ernest Browne and has hauled part of it to Stoneham.

ALBANY

Richard Dunham formerly of Albany and a chum, Adolbert Dandford of Gardiner, are spending the winter in Clearwater, Fla., enjoying life swimming and catching alligators. The young men have a collection of stuffed specimens probably to be distributed among friends when they return home. Young Dunham is the son of Mrs. Loring G. Ballard of the son of Mrs. Loring G. Ballard of Gardner and while residing in Albany will be remembered as Viola Cummings.

FRYEBURG

The Busy Bee Club

HARRISON

The ladies of Lakeside Grange served a fine supper on Wednesday evening, Feb. 18th, followed by an entertainment. There was a banner crowd present and a social was enjoyed by all the entertainment. The program was as follows:

Depot Street, Thursday afternoon, next week, it will be at Dorothy Whitney's. The ladies are working hard for a grand sale which they plan to hold in August. Approns, fancy work and miscellaneous articles will be on sale.

Geneva Penley held a birthday party at her home on School Street, last week. Delicate decorations were arranged and delicious refreshments served. Friends of Rev. Cassandra C. Sampson are all pleased to read the following, taken from the General Transcript of Franklin, N. H.: "At a meeting of the Northfield and Tilton Congregational Society last week, it was voted to accept the resignation of the Rev. O. C. Sampson from the office of pastor of the church, to take effect in June. It was voted to elect Rev. Mr. Sampson pastor Emeritus and grant him a certain sum as a life annuity."

Two Harrison Girls. Fine reports are received of Helena Burnham, a graduate of Bridgton Academy, who is attending Westbrook Seminary. Miss Burnham is a very capable girl who is pleased to hear of her success. During the whole year she has been on the honor roll and at present she stands fourth in rank in the whole school.

Miss Martha Caswell, who teaches in Brunswick, in the seventh grade, located in the High School building, spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Caswell. Miss Caswell is another Harrison girl, who is indeed making good at her chosen work. She is a graduate of Bridgton Academy and Farmington Normal School.

Twelve Good Reasons For Owning One's Home

Here are a round dozen reasons why the "Own Your Home" movement is worth while for every man to join eventually. "Why not now?"—to use a well-known advertising slogan. The reasons follow:

A home is the best investment you can make, and it will yield the biggest returns on your money.

It creates a feeling of assurance and independence.

It is a big step toward future happiness and success.

You need not wait until you have the full amount in order to begin purchasing your home.

By making monthly payments you pay for your home with the same amount of money, sometimes less than you are now paying for rent.

Each month you own a part of the property because greater.

When you are living in your home you are not living in an atmosphere of uncertainty.

You will be secure in the thought, "I will not be forced to move from the neighborhood in which I have lived for many years."

You can continue to worship in the same church, your children can continue at the same school and you can continue the association and friendship of your neighbors.

You do not have to importune the landlord, who is deaf to your urgent plea to fix the roof, the furnace or the porch.

When you own your home you add prestige to your standing in the community and among your business associates.

To own a home is a duty you owe your wife and children—almost as important as life insurance.

"Consider this dozen daily," paraphrased another "ad" man.

Would Take Billboards From Public Highways

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has issued a statement expressing approval of a law just becoming effective in Iowa, which prohibits billboards on public highways.

The new Iowa law was enacted primarily as a measure of public safety. A confusion of advertising signs along the way obscures the official signs placed to warn of turns, sharp curves, railroad crossings and the like. But it is no less valuable as a measure for conserving scenic spots for the enjoyment of the general public, the association points out in its statement.

The view from the highway, does not belong to the individual who owns the property along the right of way. It is a community possession. Real estate is interested in the whole preservation of the highway as a blot on scenery, a priceless public possession.

Modern Principles. A grocer in western town has an arrangement with the pastors of the various churches whereby he "swaps" with them the names of new families moving into town.

The merchant and the ministers jot the names down in little notebooks and every two weeks.

This is one of the plans used to get the names of newcomers. They also watch the papers and keep in touch with real estate men soon as they learn of a new family in town they call personally.

Finding the right place to attend church or trade is always a job for a woman who has just moved. So they are usually glad to give an order to the one who takes the trouble to call on her. And by starting on a friendly basis they generally succeed in getting her trade and holding it.

City's Need of Trees. Beautification of Illinois cities through city control of all trees along the streets, for which there are laws on the statute books, is being brought to the attention of various cities by P. L. Phelps of Rochelle, Ill., scientific forester, supported by the Illinois Municipal League.

"Providing shade," Mr. Phelps says, "should be as much a municipal function as providing lights or sidewalks. To obtain satisfactory results it is necessary that the city own and control all street trees."

"Nothing adds more to the beauty of a city than its well-ordered trees. This fact long has been recognized, and for many years householders have been planting trees adjoining their property in an effort to beautify that part of the city in which they live."

Change in City Managers. City managers are not invariably regarded by the cities themselves as precious possessions, a correspondent of the London Times in America writes in the London Journal. Forty per cent of 219 managers have been allowed to serve for less than two years. Of the city in Oregon has had ten managers in nine years, and Columbus, Ga., had three in one year. Nevertheless, for all its drawbacks, in theory and practice, the city manager plan seems to be making steady headway.

Worth-While Resolutions. Keeping resolutions depends less on them than on those who make them. If resolutions are worth while, effort must be commensurate. Resolutions must not keep themselves, no matter how desirable and beneficial they may be.—Grit.

Seeing its reflection in the enamel of a motorcar left on a country road in Wiltshire, England, a gamecock attacked it with such fury that there was difficulty in driving it off. Repairs cost over $40, and the bill for this queer claim has just been settled by the insurance company.

Mrs. A. W. Whitehouse lost her pocket book on the street last Friday afternoon. She was on her way up street from her home on Greenleaf Ave. There was a good sum of money in it as she was to pay her school bill. She went back over her room and found only one person who possibly might have picked up the book and is waiting to read this notice before returning it so as to make sure the ownership. We hope this is so and the book will be promptly returned.

Mrs. M. W. Sampson entertained at her home on Bridge street, Tuesday evening, an auction party. Cards with colored ribbons and completing rhymes were drawn for places. Dainty refreshments were served in the dining room, the room being illuminated by candles. The party were Mrs. V. J. Barlett, Miss Bee, Miss Ford, Miss Pauline Noble, Mrs. E. C. Murch, Mrs. William Libby, Mrs. G. Cook, Mrs. Scott Kilborn, Mrs. G. Leon Curtis, Miss Mildred Curtis, Mrs. Geo. Locke, Mrs. Charles Lovelock, Mrs. H. H. Dahlman, Miss Martha Cushman, Mrs. H. B. Foster, Miss Madelyn Hayden and the hostess.

Mrs. E. F. Wiley of Somerville, Mass., while visiting her son, Harry A. Packard, the past week, received a letter from Mrs. D. M. Frye, who is wintering in Pomona, Calif., in which was this interesting item: "We go to the packing house and get oranges. The last time we got a bushel of the nicest oranges for 50c. I counted them and found we had 17 dozen. They call them 'culls' but I could not see anything the matter with them."

Miss Harriett B. Knight, who has been spending two weeks with her brother, G. E. Knight, and other relatives has returned home.
